

COMPOUNDING A FELONY.

The proposition made by Mr. Coffin to the effect that Mr. Heney, a fugitive from justice, be furnished with a document by the Government granting him indemnity from arrest, in order that he might return to Carson, was one of the flimsiest tricks that the somewhat noted attorney ever attempted to play.

If the Tribune reports him correctly and the officers of the Government say that it does, he was, under the guise of pretending to be assisting the Government to secure the attendance of a suspect, really playing to place a document in his possession by which he might safely make his way out of the country unmolested, and elude the punishment due his crimes. There can be no other interpretation put on the proposition, for when the U. S. Marshal called Coffin's attention to the beautiful little pleaniny in the fence, and offered him protection when coming toward Carson and none when going away from it, Coffin declined the offer.

Now if Mr. Coffin knew where Heney was when making the request, he was evidently scheming to aid a fugitive from justice to escape. Admitting for the sake of argument that he was not attempting to hoodwink and humbug the Government, the fact that he knows where Heney is or can reach him with a letter, and refuses to aid the Government in securing him, places him in the position not particularly desirable for an attorney—of compounding a felony—and if such is the case it is the business of the U. S. District Attorney to prosecute him. Proceedings for disbarment would seem to be at least in order.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The News says the State Penitentiary is without a female inmate. This oversight should be immediately corrected. Mrs. Hartley would add queenly grace to the establishment.—Tribune.

Mrs. Hartley's trials are hard enough to bear without a fling now and then from the respectable journals of this State. She did but an act of justice when she ended the life of M. D. Foley, and were it not for his financial standing in life Mrs. Hartley would not be in the unpleasant situation she is today. The proper thing for a jury to have done in her case would have been to commend her for the act and, if such a thing were possible, awarded her enough of the Foley estate to maintain herself and child in comfort for the balance of her days.—Lyon County Times.

Editor Scipio Craig, of the Redlands (Cal.) Citigraph, which, by the way, is able and carefully edited and presents a neat typographical appearance, recently received an offer from some gold bugs in the East to publish single gold standard literature in his journal. Following is the way he replied in his newspaper: "The Committee on Sound Currency," which the same is a gold bug outfit, has sent us an offer to furnish supplements free to the Citigraph if we will use them. The offer is promptly, positively and persistently declined. We have no use for that kind of literature. We are for free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, and believe the people will so decide at the elections next year."

Oscar Wilde's sentence to two years at hard labor, is a terrible fall for a man who with such mental gifts was able to stand so well in the world of letters. His fate will deal a death blow to the esthetic school of lunatics who part their hair in the middle and whose only aim in life is to be girlish and dandish. But the subject is one which needs no longer to be discussed in newspapers. The press of both continents ought simply to burn a rag to clear the atmosphere and drop the subject.

It is rumored that Russia will insist upon being allowed to establish a protectorate over Corea, as a condition to her consent to the terms of peace between Japan and China. Corea needs no protection, unless it be from Russia herself. China has abandoned her claim of suzerainty, and Japan's interests lie in the direction of helping, not hurting Corea. A Russian protectorate, it is to be feared, would end in the absorption of Corea and the complete loss of her autonomy.

Bierce and McEwen, the two satirists of the Coast, are sharpening their pens and edging up where they can prod each other at short range. Already McEwen has alluded to Bierce as a "Village Scold," an epithet which Bierce is likely to resent with some heat in next Sunday's Examiner.

ICE. ICE. ICE.
The only pure ice in the market is that sold by Dr. J. M. Benton. It is cut on the Carson River—from pure, running water and not formed on stagnant pools, swarming with animal life. It is ice from mountain water that has its origin in the snow capped peaks of the Sierras and means health as well as coolness to the consumer.
